Guest speaker Ian Stanford

President Euan introduced Ian. Ian has been a travel agent for over 30 years. He began escorting tours 15 years approximately ago. Specialized in China for many years and is now running tours into Myanmar. He believes that the key to a good tour is that you need to have local tour operatives who can arrange interactions with the locals. Myanmar is opening itself up to foreigners and working towards a form of democracy. Ina believes the learning/teaching of English as a language will assist the people moving into a democracy.

The people of Myanmar are peaceful, friendly, and generous. Ian finds it a pleasure to work with them.

President Euan closed the meeting at 9.15 pm
